DANIELSON

Mr. Fisherman: Did you know that you are liable to be arrested for catching bass out of Lake Champlain, otherwise known as Old Killary pond, near East Killary?

Started, eh? But it is a fact, nevertheless. Sounds rather peculiar to set up a claim like this when every fisherman knows that July 1 brought the open season for bass, and that Champlain is not forbidden fishing ground.

Chances of arrest are due to the fact that part of the lake is in Rhode Island and part of it is in Connecticut. Under an act of the legislature just passed fishing licenses are going to be required in Connecticut, and fishing licenses are required in Rhode Island, so the Connecticut citizens who happen to row over on a Rhode Island part of the lake are liable to be arrested, according to County Game Warden Harry E. Hatt, who also is a federal game warden with jurisdiction in Rhode Island as well as in Connecticut.

Warden Hatt has not threatened to arrest anybody, but the fisherman who rows over on the Rhode Island side of the lake will be taking chances, just the same, for any Rhode Island fish and game official are going to be required to issue a license law into court.

Town Court Frank T. Preston said Thursday afternoon that he has not received any of the three copies of the act of the recent legislature that were authorized sent to each town clerk, so was not in a position to give out a statement concerning the new requirements for fishing licenses in Connecticut. Mr. Hatt added, however, that he has received a number of inquiries about fishing licenses, most of these inquiries coming from East Killary.

Remedies forest fire taking in the province of Quebec and northern Ontario are accredited with being responsible for the peculiar smoke haze that has overhung this section of eastern Connecticut for the past three days and through which the sun has shone like a shimmering red ball. Observers of weather conditions say that this phenomenon has been observed upon numerous occasions in the past when great forest fires have been sweeping over hundreds of square miles of northern woodlands.

It has seemed peculiar to many that the sun should show through clouds in such a strange manner as for the past three days, but it is attributed to the smoke and fine particles of carbon thrown off in great great volumes by forest fires that are reported as threatening to wipe out whole villages in northern Quebec and in parts of Ontario. Loss of 1,000,000 cords of pulp wood piled up along the railroad tracks is threatened in the destruction already charged against the forest fires.

Hannan, already severely tried by the extreme heat of the early part of the week, was again subjected to a Turkish bath treatment Thursday by a physician of Westport. With the mercury standing at 84 in Danielson, there was not a breath of air stirring, and the humidity was nearly sufficient to melt the bronze statue on Davis park, although no such calamity had been reported up to early evening.

Business forces released from their duties in the borough's stores for their first half holiday of the season were grateful for the respite from work, but chafed because the heat was so intense that an effort to go anywhere for an outing was almost too much to be considered.

Mrs. Marie Draper Potter, wife of Dyer Potter of Brooklyn, was reported Thursday as remaining in a critical condition at the Day Kimball hospital at Putnam. Mrs. Potter underwent an operation for appendicitis Thursday of last week. Her condition has since been regarded as serious and not showing any definite improvement. Mr. and Mrs. Potter formerly were residents of Norwich. Danielson business men are entering on wholeheartedly into their preparations for Dollar day, the first big merchandising event arranged by the Chamber of Commerce, as to assure making a success as great in proportion as was achieved in Norwich and at Williamstown recently. No such unity of action and purpose has been manifest among local business men for years, and the event already promises to show what big things a Chamber of Commerce can do working along definite lines and with the full co-operation of the membership.

Harry E. Hatt, of East Killary will have good support in his candidacy for appointment to be a member of the new state constabulary, a combination of the state police and state motor vehicle department. Mr. Hatt has been a candidate for appointment for some time since. He has had much experience as a shik and game official.

Members of the council of employees of the S. N. & T. company have been attending a conference of employees representing different divisions in this part of the state. There was little change during Thursday in the condition of Rodman Beach, father of Attorney Harry E. Hatt.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred L. Reed will spend the week end at Pleasant Beach. Sidney P. Marshall, recovered from his recent illness, has resumed his duties in the Shumway Clocking company store.

The tent crew attached to Champlain had finished the work of taking down the tent, leaving it and other equipment on motor trucks and clearing the grounds at the graded school on School street by 12:30 a. m. Thursday.

Norman Ross, who has been camping with a group of boys at Beach park, has returned to his home here.

Allice-Eleanor readjustment sale opened today. Reductions on the entire stock—ad.

Several bathing parties of Danielson people were at Moosup beach Thursday afternoon.

street, was taken to St. Vincent's hospital at Worcester Thursday to undergo an operation for appendicitis.

PUTNAM

Mrs. Luella Delano and son Bradley are spending this week at Lord's Point. Some time after closing hours Wednesday night, a theft of one package of cigarettes valued at $1.50, was made from the store of Felix Lamonte, corner of Providence and School streets. This was discovered Thursday morning when the store was opened for the day, and it was found that a window had been broken. The lower corner had been knocked out, and the carton of smokes removed from a shelf that was within arm's reach. The building itself was not entered. An automobile wrench was found under the broken window, and the police believe that a passing automobile party desiring cigarettes, took this manner of getting them.

Many automobile parties from Putnam were at Roseland lake in Woodstock Thursday afternoon, the clerks half holiday. It was one of the muggiest, and hottest days of the summer, and the lake bath houses did a tremendous business.

As the July meeting of the Putnam city council a building permit was granted to Felix Lamonte for a 12x20 store at the corner of School and Providence streets. "I understand that this building is already under construction, and if we should refuse the permit?"

"I guess it would be a waste of time refusing," replied W. W. Marcy, and the permit was issued.

At the same time building permits were issued to Everett Carver for a garage on Frank street, and Charles H. Carey for a two family tenement in Pleasant Valley.

The right of the city of Putnam to regulate and grant permits for the installation of gasoline tanks, which has been under discussion for several months by the Putnam city council, came up again in a public hearing at the city hall on Thursday evening.

The appearance of Attorney Charles L. Torrey, city corporation counsel, before the council, and the rendition of a report by the city engineer, brought the subject before the mayor and aldermen. Attorney Torrey's opinion was in connection with the case of a gasoline tank installed in a garage on School street, which some months ago applied for permission to install a sidewalk gasoline pump, which application was refused.

The council held that their place of business was so located that automobiles stopping to have tanks filled would congest the street, which is narrow and such congestion would be dangerous to life and limb. The firm ignored the council's decision and installed a tank back from the street, and then put in place an overhead, swinging crane, which carries a flexible pipe which could be used in dealing out the gas. The council desired to have this removed, for the danger of congestion is not relieved in any way by the crane device used by the firm, since automobiles stop at the same point that they would were there a sidewalk pump in place.

Mr. Torrey said: "The city can control obstructions on the city sidewalks. It can stop the installation of a pump on the walk, but I can't see where there is anything illegal in the method of selling the gasoline now used by Marcy & Brown. The only control the city could have, would be in prohibiting them from having gas cranes continuously over the sidewalk. But they could swing it out with each customer, and they have as much right to do this as the coal man has in putting a chute across the walk in delivering coal." Mr. Torrey maintained that the city could not prevent a merchant from delivering his merchandise to his customers from his place of business.

Following the statement by Mr. Torrey the question was discussed at length by the council members and from this discussion it became clear that the probable solution would be found in the passage of ordinances covering the sale and storage of gasoline and other inflammable liquids. Alderman John G. Johnson moved that the corporation counsel and the ordinance committee draw up some kind of ordinance covering filling stations, and report at the next meeting of the council. This was voted.

As a result of the interest aroused Wednesday afternoon at the meeting of women voters of Putnam and surrounding towns, a meeting was held at Mrs. Walter J. Bartlett, leader of women voters is soon to be formed here. Such a league has already been organized in East Woodstock.

Mrs. Bartlett's home were much interested by the addresses of the first speakers, all of whom were from Hartford. The aim of the league is to instruct women voters so that they may use the ballot to the best advantage.

It seeks to work through education of the women voters, to bring about the best results in the election of representatives. Mrs. Herbert Knox Smith explained it in detail, and because of the talk a number of the women are planning to attend the short course of citizenship to be given at Yale in October.

Mrs. Bartlett has stated that she is to attend. Mrs. Torrey interested the women voters by telling them how they might break down the "barriers of legal, economic, educational, professional and traditional discrimination" under which they have to live now, and the subject to be discussed.

Mrs. Leona Hill was in Putnam Wednesday night conferring with the Chautauque guarantors.

Rev. Dr. Berrell, pastor of the Second Congregational church of Putnam, made a statement Thursday concerning the renovations that are to be made during the summer months to the church auditorium, and which will involve the expenditure of more than $11,000. $2,500 of which is to be used for the installation of the Chester E. Child Memorial organ.

The statement was in substance: "Fully conscious of the venerable history of the central position, and of the wide influence of the Second Congregational church, and realizing that nearly twenty-five years have elapsed since any considerable attention had been paid to the interior of the church building, the officers of the Congregational society called a meeting of the society May 25th last. This meeting after careful consideration, appointed a committee to investigate and to report at a later meeting regarding the cost and manner of renovating the interior of the church. The committee selected as members: Ray C. Roworth, chairman; Ernest C. Morse, Silas M. Wheeler, C. Dwight Sharpe, Mrs. Chester E. Child and Mrs. Frederick J. Daniels. John G. Johnson was later added to the committee to serve as treasurer."

The statement goes on to tell of the visits made by this committee, and the consultations held, and continues: "The committee, moving with the enthusiasm and hearty approval of Mrs. Chester E. Child, purposes installing a new, thoroughly modern organ to be purchased with the Chester E. Child fund of approximately $12,000, and to be known as the Chester E. Child Memorial organ. The organ is to be divided, with two manuals and pedals, electric action and detached console. The Great and Pedal organs will be at the right side of the arch. The Small organ on the left; the entire organ is to be behind studding that the effect of a choir may be obtained from the Great and the Echo organ from the Small. There are to be three stories, with modern console, Super. Octave and Sub. and with the electric action will give variety, not even remotely approached by the present organ. It is estimated that the new organ will be at least four times as powerful as the one now in use. The organ is to be installed ready for use on or before December 24, 1921. Provision has been made on the console for an echo organ, which at a cost of $2,000 could sometime be installed.

The present organ occupies a large arch at the east end of the auditorium. This arch is to be made use of in renovating, and the new divided organ will be placed, one-half on each of its walls. Mr. Merrill's description is as follows: "Coming down the center aisle of the church the attention will be first caught by a beautiful memorial window of stained glass in the center of the arch. The window is to be in three sections, the large center window balancing two small windows. In the window will stand the communion table. The approach to the platform will be by four broad steps in the center; these will give a grand effect, and the main entrance will be in a manner that either a larger or smaller would not look out of place nor proportion. A runner of appropriate color will reach from the main door up across the steps and platform, terminating at the communion table. The rail will not be placed immediately before the choir as at present, but will be at the edge of the front, or pulpit platform. This rail is to be of decorative, wrought iron; it will not reach entirely across the front, for there will be a nine foot opening in the center. It is to be backed with a velvet curtain and will screen the organist, who will be placed in the right hand corner of the pulpit platform, from which place he can direct his entire choir upon occasion. The arch will be lighted from overhead, the light dim or full, flooding down into the auditorium. The entire auditorium will be newly painted in a buff color; the ceiling is to be done in white, the pews are to be varnished. The estimated cost of the work exclusive of the organ, is $2,200, of which $1,100 has already been given in various memorials, including the memorial arch window, a new memorial window in the center, the choir stalls, the wrought-iron rails and the lighting system of the arch.
